The Career Development Centre (CDC) at ACAS provides thorough training sessions using innovative and collaborative techniques with the purpose of empowering students to accomplish their career goals. It is intended for students who want to work as professionals in global corporations. They can improve their employability skills on this useful platform, which will help them stand out for their industrial learning competency. It represents showcasing to them the business working culture's industrial ideals and readiness for a career. It serves as a link between youthful brains with highly developed potential and industrial minds. The main goal of CDC is to provide opportunities for experiential learning to enable all career aspirants to develop their own brand of professionalism.

Vision

- To create employment possibilities for business outlook on a national and international level.
- To prepare students for the business world and make them globally employable.
- To improve the interaction between industry and institution through commercial techniques.
- Objective to prepare students for careers in the global economy as highly qualified individuals.

Mission

- To deliver instruction via ongoing training modules.
- To give students advice on how to increase their exposure to the global job market.
- To meet with leading international corporations to discuss our campus recruitment.
- To increase students' enthusiasm for industry and their desire for entrepreneurship.

Training Strategies of CDC

- The CDC's training strategies include planning, screening, implementing, evaluating, and assessing students' potential to ace interviews each month.
- Adjusting to new learning approaches and technologies.

- Helping them to recognise each student's personal development based on their results.
- Assisting the students in using their self-evaluation reports to analyse their professional development.
